cultures benefited from the exchange of medical ideas and practices. Impotence and its medical and psychosocial aspects were also discussed. The committee noted that the price of the inhaler was significantly less than the oral spray and that it may, therefore, be preferable to fund only the inhaler. Additionally, the committee discussed the importance of maintaining integrity and not going public with certain decisions to avoid tarnishing the organization's reputation.